In the Principal Town districts the death rate was 187 for every ten thousand of the estimated population; in the Large Town districts, 168; in the Small Town districts, 158; in the Mainland-Rural districts, 149; and in the Insular-Rural districts, 137.

In the Principal Town districts marriages occurred at the rate of 90 for every ten thousand of the estimated population; in the Large Town districts the rate was 73; in the Small Town districts, 64; in the Mainland-Rural districts, 52; and in the Insular-Rural districts, 35.

In January the number of marriages registered was 3777; in February, 1568; in March, 1701; in April, 2263; in May, 1000; in June, 4741; in July, 3449; in August, 1979; in September, 2065; in October, 1873; in November, 2217; and in December, 3623.

EIGHT OF THE PRINCIPAL TOWNS OF SCOTLAND.

The following remarks are made with reference to events which occurred in eight of the Principal Towns of Scotland, viz., Glasgow, Edinburgh, Dundee, Aberdeen, Leith, Paisley, Greenock, and Perth, and it is assumed that facts relating to them will also be found to apply to a considerable extent to the surrounding districts.

BIRTHS IN EIGHT PRINCIPAL TOWNS.

48,706 births were registered in these towns during the year, being in the proportion of 321 for every ten thousand of estimated population. In Glasgow the birth-rate was 341 per ten thousand of estimated population; in Leith, 333; in Greenock, 331; in Paisley, 330; in Aberdeen, 327; in Dundee, 301; in Edinburgh, 275; and in Perth, 273.

Of the 48,706 births 45,152 were legitimate, and 3554 illegitimate; the illegitimate births thus constituting 7·9 per cent. of the whole. In Aberdeen, 9·2 per cent. of the births were illegitimate; in Dundee, 8·8; in Edinburgh, 8·6; in Perth, 7·5; in Glasgow, 6·9; in Paisley, 5·9; in Greenock, 5·0; and in Leith, 4·1 per cent. Table VIII. also shows the percentage of illegitimate births registered in these towns during the year, to the possible mothers, i.e., widows and spinsters, between 15 and 45 years of age. In this connection the rate in Aberdeen was 1·92 per cent.; in Glasgow, 1·71; in Dundee, 1·55; in Greenock, 1·37; in Edinburgh, 1·34; in Perth, 1·29; in Paisley, 1·22; and in Leith, 1·21 per cent.

Of the 48,706 births in these towns 24,974 were of males, and 23,732 of females, indicating a proportion of 105·2 males for every 100 females.

DEATHS IN EIGHT PRINCIPAL TOWNS.

28,877 deaths were registered in these towns during the year, being at the rate of 190 for every ten thousand of the estimated population, or 1·90 per cent.

The highest mortality rate in any of the towns occurred in Glasgow, being 204 per ten thousand of its estimated population, followed by Perth with 194; Dundee with 192; Paisley with 185; Aberdeen with 182; Greenock with 178; Edinburgh with 169; and Leith with 160. It will be seen from Table IX. that the rates in each town are all below the corresponding rates for 1895, and also below the mean rates for the last ten years.

Table X. shows the mortality among children under 5 years of age in each of these towns. The estimated number of children living in these towns at the middle of the year was 185,087, and the number of deaths 11,081, the rate of mortality being 60 per thousand. In Glasgow the corresponding rate was 69; in Dundee, 62; in Aberdeen and in Greenock, 52; in Paisley, 50; in Edinburgh, 48; in Leith, 46; and in Perth, 44. The same Table also shows that of every 100 deaths in Glasgow, 43 were of children under 5 years of age; in Dundee and in Leith, 38; in Greenock, 37; in Aberdeen and in Paisley, 35; in Edinburgh, 30; and in Perth, 25.

In Tables XI. and XII. are given the rates of mortality from certain diseases, and classes of disease in each of the above towns. Table XI.

WEATHER AND ITS INFLUENCE ON MORTALITY.

The following remarks on the weather of the year are extracted from the Notes made by Dr Buchan, under the direction of the Council of the Scottish Meteorological Society, which appear in the Registrar-General's Quarterly Reports:—

The weather of January was characterised by an unusually high barometric pressure, with a very large monthly range; a high temperature, with the average mean daily range; a humidity slightly above the average; an excess of three days of westerly winds and a three days' deficiency of southerly winds; a rainfall greatly under the average at all the large towns, and falling two days fewer than the average.

The weather of February was characterised by an unusually high barometric pressure, with an unusually small range; an unusually high mean temperature, with the average mean daily range; a humidity less than the average; a rainfall about half the average of February, falling on two days fewer than the average; and a greater excess of south-westerly winds than has been recorded since 1883.

The weather of March was characterised by an unusually low barometric pressure and high monthly range; a mean temperature two degrees above the average, with a mean daily range considerably above the average; a low humidity; a rainfall a little above the average, but falling on six days more than the average; and southerly and south-westerly winds six days in excess of the average.

The weather of April was characterised by a mean barometric pressure considerably above, with a monthly range considerably under, the average; a mean temperature hitherto unprecedented for April, with a mean daily range about the average; a very low humidity, having been only once lower, viz., April 1858, when it was 73; a rainfall only half the average, falling, however, on the average number of days; and a prevalence of west winds absolutely unprecedented.

The weather of May was characterised by a very high mean barometric pressure, considerably higher than any that has occurred during the past 40 years, with a very low monthly range, being the third lowest during the same years; a very high mean temperature, being the highest during the past 40 years, with a very large mean daily range, which in May was only exceeded in 1859; a very low humidity, a lower having occurred in 1859; a very small rainfall, smaller amounts having been collected in May 1859 and 1876, being respectively 0·36 inch and 0·55 inch; and a prevalence of north-westerly winds.

The weather of June was characterised by a mean barometric pressure a little under the average, with a monthly range lower than has been recorded since 1864; a mean temperature about a degree and a half above the average, with a mean daily range above a degree and a half lower than has occurred since 1879; a mean humidity greater than any since 1875; a rainfall 33 per cent. above the average, falling on seven days in excess of the mean of June ; and a prevalence of north-easterly winds.

July was characterised by a mean barometric pressure somewhat above the average, with a monthly range considerably under it ; a mean temperature with mean daily range, both the average ; a mean humidity a little under the average ; a rainfall about a third above the average, falling one day more than the average ; and a very slight excess of southerly winds blowing with the average force.

August was characterised by a mean barometric pressure considerably above the average, with a monthly range singularly low ; a mean temperature a little over a degree less than the average, with a mean daily range nearly the average ; a mean humidity unusually low for August ; a rainfall greatly under the average, falling one day more than the average ; and a great predominance of north-westerly winds, with a force much under the average.

September was characterised by an unusually low barometric pressure, with a singularly large monthly range ; a mean temperature half a degree less than the average, with a mean daily range considerably under the average ; a mean humidity slightly above the average ; a large rainfall falling on twenty-three days, which is greatly in excess of the September average ; and a large excess of south-easterly winds.

October was characterised by a low barometric pressure, with a very large monthly range ; a mean temperature unprecedently low for the month, with a rather large mean daily range ; a very low mean humidity ; a mean rainfall a little above the average, falling on eighteen days, or one day more than the average ; and a very unusual prevalence of northerly winds.

November was characterised by a high mean barometric pressure, being higher than during any November since 1879, with a monthly range slightly under the average ; a mean temperature a degree above the average, with a mean daily range a degree under it ; a rather low humidity ; a mean rainfall only a third part of the average, falling on thirteen days, or three days fewer than the average ; and a slight predominance of westerly winds.

December was characterised by a rather low mean pressure, with an average monthly range ; the average mean temperature, with a mean daily range half a degree less than the average ; a very high humidity ; an unusually large rainfall, falling on twenty-three days, being a larger number of rainy days than has been recorded on any previous December ; and a great excess of easterly winds, south-easterly winds being three days, east one day, and north-east one day above the averages.

Tables XIII. and XIV. give information regarding the meteorological conditions of the year, and the mortality as it occurred in the several months, and in Table XIII. for comparison, is added corresponding information for the mean of the ten years 1881-1890. The lowest mean temperature of the year occurred in December, and in the same month the greatest mortality is also to be found.

Table XV. shows the connection between certain atmospheric phenomena and the deaths from certain diseases and classes of disease in the eight towns already referred to. Measles was most prevalent during June and July, and November, and December. Scarlet Fever appears to have reached its highest point in September. Hooping-Cough proved most fatal during the first five months of the year, and gradually decreased till September, after which it again appears on the increase. The number of deaths from Diphtheria was lowest during July and highest in November. Diarrhoeal Affections caused the greatest number of deaths during the summer and autumn months, and Fevers were most prevalent during April and May.

Phthisis had its heaviest mortality during the month of March, and did not show a decided fall in this respect until the end of June.

Diseases of the Respiratory Organs were most fatal during January, November, and December; the months which had the least number of deaths from these diseases being July, August, and September. In March, May, and December, deaths from Affections of the Organs of Circulation were of most frequent occurrence; and Diseases of the Nervous System during January, March, April, and December.

Tables XVII. and XVIII. show the number of deaths registered during each month at a series of ages, and from these it will be seen that the months most fatal to children under five years of age were June, July, November, and December.

Among Adolescents (those between 5-20 years) May proved the most fatal month, August being that in which fewest deaths occurred.

Deaths of Adults (between 20-60 years) occurred most frequently during the first four and last two months of the year; July, August, and September showing the smallest numbers of deaths at these ages.

The Aged, or those over 60 years of age, appear in greatest numbers in the cold months of January, November, and December.

The actual mortality among the inhabitants of these towns was greatest in December, the next following being November, January, March, April, June, July, May, October, February, August, and September.

VACCINATION OF CHILDREN

BORN IN SCOTLAND DURING 1895.

The Returns of Vaccination for the year 1895 show that, of the 126,561 children whose births were recorded in Scotland, 108,035, or 85·362 per cent., were successfully vaccinated. In 2567 cases certificates of postponement were granted, being at the rate of 2·028 per cent. ; 492, or 0·389 per cent., were described as insusceptible of vaccination in consequence of some constitutional peculiarity ; one child was insusceptible from having had Small Pox : and 232, or 0·183 per cent., were insusceptible from having been vaccinated, but by persons who were not qualified to give certificates to that effect. 12,474 of the children born, or 9·856 per cent., died before vaccination, and 2760, or 2·181 per cent., were removed from the district in which they were born, previous to vaccination, or in some other way were unaccounted for. It thus appears that the number successfully vaccinated is slightly under the average of the previous ten years, that the proportion of postponed cases is above the average; the number constitutionally insusceptible was above the average, although below that for the two preceding years; and the number insusceptible from previous vaccination is under the average. The number of children removed from the district or in some other way unaccounted for is below the average.

Table XX. shows the proportions to the total living children, those who died before being vaccinated being omitted, and from this it will be seen that, of the 114,087 children alive at the age of six months, 108,035, or 94·695 per cent., were successfully vaccinated; in 2567 cases, or in 2·250 per cent., vaccination was postponed; in 492 cases, or in 0·431 per cent., the children were certified to be constitutionally insusceptible; in 232 cases, or in 0·204 per cent., the children were insusceptible from previous successful vaccination; and in one case the child was insusceptible in consequence of having already had Small Pox. In 2760 cases, or 2·419 per cent., the children were removed from the district in which they were born, or were otherwise unaccounted for.

EXTRACTS FROM THE REGISTRAR'S NOTES RELATIVE TO THE WORKING OF THE VACCINATION ACT.

II. NORTH-WESTERN DIVISION.

6. INVERNESS.

Mainland.

95. DAVIOT AND DUNLIGHTY. — Considering that the people have to go long distances to get their children vaccinated, no Vaccinator being resident in the parish, the requirements of the Act are well attended to.

101. KILTARLITY. — The 3 postponed cases are accounted for by epidemics of Measles and Scarlet Fever.

Insular.

111. (1) NORTH HARRIS. — Vaccination would have been very satisfactorily done had it not been that the Vaccinator left the district in November.

113. NORTH UIST. — The weather has been so severe that parents could not come out with their children to meet the Medical Officer.

118. (1) BENBECULA. — The 12 unaccounted for are presumed to have been vaccinated, although certificates to that effect have not yet been received.

III. NORTH-EASTERN DIVISION.

9. BANFF.

157. (2) GLENLIVAT. — Vaccination not very well attended to. A good many require the statutory notice to remind them.

10. ABERDEEN.

168. (2) ABERDEEN (OLD MACHAR). — Of the 13 cases entered in Col. 7, 3 have removed from the district, no certificate of any kind has been received regarding other 3 of them; and 7 have been postponed, but are slightly in arrear.

V. WEST-MIDLAND DIVISION.

19. ARGYLL.

Mainland.

526. LOCHGILPHEAD. — The Vaccinators had a good deal of trouble during the past twelve months with Chickenpox, Scarlatina, etc., and the effects of these complaints are still present in some cases. The 14 in Col. 7 are in the hands of the Parish Councils, and will likely all be returned yet as successfully vaccinated.

533. (1) SOUTH KNAPDALE. — A list of defaulters was sent in to the Parish Council of cases occurring up to 1895, and a satisfactory account of all these has been given by the Inspector of Poor in a recent report relating to same. The excuses for these cases were:—1st, Distance from Medical Officer, and failure of vaccine matter to take effect; 2nd, farm servants leaving district for situations elsewhere, and, 3rd, vagrancy.

Insular.

544. KILNINIAN AND KILMORE. — The 2 entries in the postponed column are of children who have now been successfully vaccinated, although certificates to that effect have not yet been received.

551 (2) COLL. — The parents of the 2 children whose vaccination is postponed live at a great distance from the village, but the Vaccinator will endeavour to have them attended to at once.

VI. SOUTH-WESTERN DIVISION.

22. AYR.

578. (1) AYR.—A few parents showed a marked unwillingness to have their children vaccinated, and one positively refused.

597. KILMARNOCK.—There is a tendency on the part of many parents to refuse to have their children vaccinated.

VII. SOUTH-EASTERN DIVISION.

25. EDINBURGH.

686. FALA AND SOUTRA. — Considerable difficulty is sometimes experienced in getting certificates of vaccination of children whose parents leave the parish.

* The actual number of Districts is 1060—many Parishes and Burghs having been divided into two or more Districts for the purpose of Registration. Thus Edinburgh and Glasgow, to each of which only a single number is assigned in the Tables, consist of 5 and 14 Districts respectively. In forming the alphabetical arrangement the principle adopted has been to place compound names in the order in which they are pronounced.
